

A Love Of My Own

*I would rather have someone to love me,
A spirit my heart could embrace
Than to have all the gold in the mountains;
Such treasures cannot take the place
Of a love which would always be faithful,
A someone who really would care,
Who'd be part of my joys and my sorrows,
My secrets and struggles to share.*

*I wish I had someone to love me,
A heart to whom love I could give,
For then I would welcome tomorrow
As love offers reason to live.
I need to have someone to love me,
A someone whom I could love, too.
Out of all of the world's lonely people,
Could my special someone - be you?*
